

We have a new way to partner with Learning2 in 2023

Sharing the legacy of your school community is an ongoing conversation. Let us help you share that story and invite educators around the world to better understand the opportunities you offer. Ready to leverage your Learning2 school partnership?

Our premier Learning2 Asia conference will be at the International School of Bangkok on 2–4 November, 2023. Presenters and participants are already signing up from across the globe. You are invited to purchase a digital space on our 'partnership schools' page on our conference website learning2.org/asia2023. Links will also be posted through our conference App Whova.

What might schools use this space for?

- Post about current/possible openings or share recruitment information
- Introduce their school and community
- Explain how their school is connecting to the conference theme/learnings
- By participating at the conference, engage with educators from the region
- Are you doing research or looking for feedback outside of your school community? Learn more about the needs, challenges and interests of the innovative global educator community

This new opportunity is open to our current partner schools only.

- To reserve a space on the website as a school partner you can book one of the ten spots for US$150.00
- Add your school logo to the conference banners and show our participants your commitment to the L2 learning community for US$100.00

Do check out our special offer for 5+ registrations with flexibility to name your participants at a later stage. We are a partner of EARCOS and additional discounts apply.
